

British Bells Ring Out Welcome For New Prince

Elizabeth's Baby Weighs 7 Lb., 6 Oz.

'Splendid Boy' Is Born Sunday

LONDON, Nov. 15—The resounding bells of London's churches and those of the entire commonwealth rang loud and long today to herald the birth of a son and heir to the British throne.

An official bulletin from Buckingham Palace said that Princess Elizabeth, the happy mother and her infant prince are in a satisfactory condition. The statement said:

"Princess Elizabeth had some sleep during the night. Her condition and that of the infant prince are satisfactory."

It was signed by the gynecologist, Sir William Gilliat, and the palace physician, Sir John Weir, who left Buckingham during the morning after a nightlong vigil following the birth of a child described by a close intimate of the royal family as "a really splendid boy."

A question the whole world has been asking—how much did the baby weigh?—was answered at 8:20 a. m. (EST).

An official statement said that at the moment of birth, the child tipped the scales at 7 pounds, six ounces.

AS BRITISH warships at sea and in ports throughout the world fired 41-gun salutes to welcome the baby prince there was an attempt to return to normal routine at Buckingham Palace.

It was made known that neither Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, proud father of the baby, nor Queen Elizabeth would make an appearance on the balcony during the day.

But in spite of this, a constantly-changing crowd milled in the mall before the great iron gates of the palace.

Its members, representing every conceivable layer of humanity, eagerly scanned the small bulletin that said on the second day of his life the baby who someday is destined to wear the crown of England is healthy and fine.

Flags broke out on mastsheads throughout London and bunting draped buildings on this typical London November day. Workers going to their jobs heard peal upon peal of church bells and the chimes which never fail to bring joy to the hearts of Britons rang throughout the morning.

Crowds gathered in Hyde Park for the firing of a 41-gun salute by the royal household artillery.

What Shall We Name New Prince, Britons Ponder

LONDON, Nov. 15—The names to be given Princess Elizabeth's new son are Britain's major subject of speculation today.

The baby prince, in accordance with royal custom, will receive at least four names, and some court circles believe the first of these will be Andrew.

They pointed out that Andrew is the name not only of Prince Philip's late father, Prince Andrew of Greece, but also of St. Andrew, patron saint of Scotland.

The royal family, and Philip and Elizabeth in particular, have close associations with England's northern neighbor.

The young royal couple draw the title of their dukedom from Edinburgh, Scotland's capital city.

Elizabeth herself is partly Scottish.

Her maternal grandfather, Queen Elizabeth's father, is the Earl of Strathmore, head of the

TAFT TO LEAD OPPOSITION

Lucas Sees Anti-Inflation Law OK In New Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—Sen. Scott Lucas, (D) Ill., predicted today that the new Democratic-controlled Congress will vote President Truman the standby anti-inflation controls rejected by the GOP 80th Congress.

At the same time, however, Rep. Wood, (D) Ga., indicated that many Southern Democrats may oppose Mr. Truman's request for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, and for enactment of price control and civil rights legislation.

Lucas, slated to be the majority leader in the new Senate, declared:

"I don't believe we'll have any trouble getting the President's program through. After all, the election demonstrated what the people of this country want."

Lucas declined to discuss details of the program in the absence of Mr. Truman and other top party leaders now vacationing in Key West, Fla., following the strenuous campaign.

But a battle is in prospect over the price-wage control issue, if Republican and Democratic conservatives have anything to say about it.

Sen. Taft, (R) Ohio, retiring chairman of the joint economic committee and chief foe of the President's stronger anti-inflation proposals, is expected to lead the opposition.

REP. WOOD, who will become chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, said he anticipates "some serious opposition."

The suspect in the Foster case was identified by Police Chief Marvin Richards as Lonnie Lee Freake. He was arrested after Canon City police noted his "belligerent attitude" when he was given a ticket for going through a stop sign.

In the other two cases, which authorities fear may be linked with the Foster murder near Boulder, Miss De Bell disappeared two weeks ago and Mrs. South has been missing since Friday morning.

Freake was released and later picked up in a tavern "on a hunch" by authorities.

State Patrolman Robert Lackey searched Freake's car, a 1940 Oldsmobile club coupe, and reported that the inside of the

Gallup Admits He All Wrong

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—Dr. George Gallup admitted today that political polls serve no useful purpose.

The poll taker who went astray in the Nov. 2 election by predicting a Dewey victory, made his admission on NBC's "meet the press" program.

Gallup, who conducts the American Institute of Public Opinion, said he made a mistake by stopping his poll ten days before the election.

City Pours Honors On Football Team

One Big Dinner After Another Given Boys; Vacation Called

Honor after honor is being showered on the undefeated and untied Circleville high school championship team by city merchants, school heads and school students.

As climax to the many acclamations, the Circleville squad was called before a high school assembly Monday morning.

Included in the Monday program were speeches by Carl Leist, board of education president; Frank Fischer, school superintendent; J. Wray Henry, principal; and Steve Brudzinski and Tom Bennett, mentors for the victorious Red and Black.

Circleville high school band also contributed to the enthusiastic assembly, playing a series of pep marches, directed by Truman Eberly.

High point of the assembly was when the coaches called the whole squad to the front of the auditorium and congratulated them, followed by rousing cheers.

AS AN ADDED honor, high school heads dismissed classes at 10:30 a. m. for the remainder of the day. Elementary school classes remained at their duties, however.

Other honors bestowed on the team included the celebration in the center of town, followed by an offer for the team to stuff its collective stomach in Hanley's restaurant as guests of John Laughlin, manager.

That offer was followed up Saturday by Charley Glitt's Court-Main restaurant, with everything on the house.

Other honor feeds are coming up.

At least two big banquets already have been scheduled.

Friday evening, the team will be honored guests at the annual Booster Club banquet.

Next Monday evening, they are to be feted at the annual Circleville Kiwanis Club banquet.

Final plans were completed Monday for an hour and a half program at the Booster banquet Friday evening in First Methodist church.

Booster officials said all but nearly 50 of the 300 ducats to be sold for the occasion had been reserved. Reservation deadline is Tuesday morning.

Included in the Friday program will be talks by Columbus Mayor James A. Rhodes, Bill Smith, Olympics swimming champ from Ohio State university, and Steve Brudzinski and Tom Bennett, coaches of this year's undefeated and untied Circleville football team.

OTHER entertainment for the program will include a quartet from the Waltonian chorus and a novelty act along with piano music by Miss Dorothy Glick and introduction of the team.

Prime interest to members of the football team and fans alike will be presentation of the "most valuable player" trophy to be given to a member of the team for his outstanding work.

Main course of the banquet will be ham. The event is scheduled to begin promptly at 6:30 p. m.

The Kiwanis banquet is booked for 6:30 p. m. Monday, Nov. 22, in Pickaway Country Club.

Dr. Richard Samuel, program chairman, said Monday an unusual program is being arranged.

H. W. Emsweiler, state director of athletics is expected to be principal speaker.

AFL Says Needs Of U.S. Greater Than Labor's

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15—The American Federation of Labor opened its 67th annual convention today with a warning to its seven and a quarter million members that the needs of the nation were paramount to the needs of labor.

The executive council, governing body of the 2,000-union federation, began its 196-page report by citing the apparent failure of peace negotiations and of the united nations it continued:

"Peace has not followed human sacrifices on the battlefield nor has it followed from the operations of world political machinery—the United Nations—on which so much thought and effort were expended."

"On the contrary, conferences between Allied countries have proved futile due to irreconcilable conflicts on basic concepts of political institutions.

Chiang Denies Red Tale He To Be Given Big Boot

NANKING, Nov. 15 — Chinese government troops were reported steadily weakening today under a massive Communist onslaught on all sides of Suchow, guarding the main approaches to Nanking.

Despite this darkening picture, an official Nanking spokesman characterized as "absolutely untrue" a Communist claim that top Nationalist leaders are conniving to force the "abdication" of President Chiang Kai-Shek.

Authoritative sources revealed meanwhile that the United States plans the gradual withdrawal of some 1,250 officers and men of its military advisory group from China. This would leave a nucleus of only about 50 American Army, Navy and Air Force officers of the group in China.

Chiang, it was learned, has been directly informed of the American decision to evacuate the bulk of the military advisory personnel because of the swiftly deteriorating Nationalist military position in Central China.

This morning a U. S. Destroyer sailed from Nanking's Yangtze river port for Shanghai with approximately 250 evacuees aboard. More than half the evacuees were Americans.

LATEST available information from the Suchow front stated that the government forces were sustaining increasingly

Sheriff Can Go Man-Hunting Now

Pickaway County law officials Monday were alerted to be on the look-out for four men who escaped Perry County jail at New Lexington.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said he had been advised by phone from New Lexington that Perry Sheriff Clair Butts had "gone hunting" early Monday for pheasant and that a trusty had liberated the four prisoners.

The quartet was listed as Robert Romine, 23, William Good-fellow, 19, Clyde Kelly, 26, and Hugh Robbins, 39.

Butts could not be reached immediately and neither could his deputies.

Mediator Asks More Backing

PARIS, Nov. 15—The government of Israel flatly rejected today a permanent peace plan for Palestine which would require Jewish withdrawal from 500 square miles of the Southern Negev territory.

Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok, warning the UN Political Committee that acceptance of Acting Mediator Ralph J. Bunche's armistice plan would mean violent new warfare, said:

"To detach the Negev from Israel means curtailment of the territory of an existing sovereign state.

The denunciation of the demand that Israel retire from a 500-square-mile area of the Negev, taken from the Egyptians in recent fighting, was unanimous among Israeli officials.

One of them described the proposal as "shameful."

Egyptian Prime Minister Mahmoud Nokrashy Pasha said in Cairo that his government will comply with Bunche's request on the Negev.

Israeli officials are angered particularly by the recollection that the Negev was assigned to them under the original UN partition scheme which never has been repudiated.

A foreign office spokesman complained that the Israelis are required to withdraw but the Bunche plan "does not mention

Famed Sculptor, Wife Are Found Shot To Death

BOCA RATON, Fla., Nov. 15—The search for the slayer of Leno Lazzari, internationally famed sculptor, and his wife was intensified today after the jeep believed to have been used by the killer was found in West Palm Beach.

The car was found parked near the town's courthouse, 40 miles from the scene of the murder.

A service station attendant told police that he saw "a slightly built" man about 30 years old park the vehicle early yesterday afternoon.

The jeep definitely was identified as one which had been parked in front of Lazzari's tiny pictureque home before the double slaying.

A neighbor found the bodies of the famed sculptor, who was 48, and Mrs. Lazzari, 42. They had been dead about eight hours. Each was shot through the stomach.

Police Chief W. H. Brown of Boca Raton said the killings may have had a robbery motive, but he declared emphatically that it was "pre-meditated murder."

Sheriff Switch Is Unusual

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15—Franklin County Sheriff Ralph J. Paul and Chief Deputy Dale V. Thibault will switch jobs today—then on Jan. 1, they'll switch back again.

The unusual circumstance came about because Paul was appointed to serve until the next election, after Sheriff Jacob E. Sandusky died in July, 1947. On Nov. 2, Thibault was elected to fill the late Sandusky's unexpired term and Paul was elected to a four-year term beginning Jan. 1.

any similar Arab movement," he added:

"APPARENTLY the whole Negev will be a vacuum administered by UN observers with the astonishing exception of Beersheba."

In Paris, Bunche called on the Security Council today to replace the "precarious" Palestine truce with a decision to obtain permanent peace.

He demanded that the council throw the full weight of its authority behind his orders that Israel retreat from 500 square miles of Negev area territory. Bunche told the council that the Arabs have failed to achieve their objectives in the holy land fighting while the state of Israel "is a strongly entrenched fact in Palestine today."

Meanwhile, the 58-nation political committee moved to discuss the plan of the late mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, after turning over half its work to a special committee.

The political committee rejected an Egyptian and Lebanese motion to shelve the Bernadotte plan, which calls for the transfer of the Negev from Israel to Trans-Jordan.

The special committee will handle the report of the Security Council, the admission of new members, the question of the Security Council veto, the "little assembly" and the issue of a special UN guard force.

Its creation came after Argentine Delegate Dr. Jose Arce acidly criticized the great powers "who seem to be taking over the assembly entirely."

BUNCHE'S armistice plan orders the Jewish forces to withdraw by Friday from 500 square miles of territory in the Negev. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada introduced a resolution embodying the salient points of the Bunche plan and ordering an armistice in all sectors.

It also calls for negotiations either direct or through the UN mediator and provides for establishment of demilitarized areas. Fays El-Khoury of Syria objected, maintaining that no armistice can be imposed without full consent of both parties.

The Syrian delegate charged that heavy war equipment still is being smuggled into Israel "from certain countries of Europe." He said that four destroyers now in Tel Aviv harbor "came from the Adriatic Sea or some other part of Europe."

El-Khoury pressed the Security Council to enforce sanctions for truce violations. He said these had occurred as late as Nov. 10.

Marshall Pens Reply To Idea

Taft-Hartley Act 'Spirit' Must Be Changed, Claim

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—"The spirit of the Taft-Hartley Act has got to be changed," Sen. Elbert Thomas, (D) Utah, probable next chairman of the Senate labor committee, declared today. He added:

"It is a law built on the assumption that labor wanted to be free from its leaders, which, of course, never was true."

"Bringing back of the injunctive process into industrial disputes took labor relations back to the days when actions by labor unions were viewed in law as conspiracies."

"The side-stepping of the National Labor Relations Board by allowing labor-industry cases to be taken directly to district courts had the effect of removing the board from its primary jurisdiction. That resulted in the board's loss of prestige."

"The original labor relations act had been set up to promote honest collective bargaining on terms that made the worker equal with the employer."

"In the Taft-Hartley Act the law was written so that the board's action was often directed against labor and the law was allowed to operate as a restraint on labor instead of on industry."

"The real evil resulted from the fact that no law such as the National Labor Relations Act ever becomes understood or its meaning appreciated until we have had a generation of judgment about the law."

"This we were fast getting. But with the Taft-Hartley Act, we had to start all over again."

Just when and where the little prince will be christened—and thus receive whatever names are decided on—also is a matter of much discussion.

Observers believe it is likely that the royal infant will be baptized during Christmas Week.

Elizabeth's Baby Weighs 7 Lb., 6 Oz.

Prince Philip, King George and Queen Elizabeth visited the young mother in her suite during the morning and then went to the nursery adjoining for a fresh look at the infant.

Although the first bulletin of the day indicated that the princess did not have an entirely restful night, it was understood that her doctors are entirely satisfied with her condition. It is regarded as entirely normal for the number of hours since the baby was born at 4:14 p. m. (EST) yesterday.

ALMOST every London newspaper splashed across its front page the headlines, "It's A Boy."

Word of the birth was sent immediately to the anxious young father, Prince Philip. He rushed immediately to the bedside of his 22-year-old wife and whispered his delight and affection while she had not yet completely recovered from the "twilight sleep" anaesthetic given her in the final stages.

The news was sent at the same time to the new grandparents, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, and to Queen Mother Mary.

The queen embraced Philip, and King George shook him warmly by the hand.

Later the 81-year-old queen mother arrived at the palace, congratulated the new father, and lifted her first great-grandchild in her arms.

Official announcement of the birth of Elizabeth's son, the first prince born in the direct line of succession in 54 years, when the present Duke of Windsor was born, was then made by the king's principal private secretary, Sir Alan Lascelles.

Sir Alan telephoned the news to Home Secretary J. Chuter Ede and dispatched it to the commonwealth nations.

The British Broadcasting Co. immediately announced the anxiously awaited tidings to the nation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—American delegates will enter the World Food and Agriculture Organization conference today determined to sell the 57 FAO nations on writing a new wheat agreement.

Congress Turns Spotlight On Unfair Car Deals

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15—A congressional hearing will turn the spotlight today on unfair trade practices by car dealers which cost American motorists nearly a half-billion dollars in the first seven months of this year.

A House subcommittee headed by Rep. Maury (R) N. Y., summoned officials of two Washington automobile agencies to initiate the public probe. The House group was created by special resolution to investigate "questionable trade practices."

Witnesses subpoenaed for today represent the Kearney Oldsmobile Co., in Washington. In addition, spokesmen for the General Motors Corp., are to be present.

The congressional investigators are expected to show that during the first seven months of 1948, American automobile buyers lost more than $200 million on "undervalued trade-ins" and another $250 million on "extras they did not want."

A committee source also said that evidence will be developed as the hearings go on showing that "under the table" payments have been made to unscrupulous dealers in addition to the regulation list prices for new cars.

Preliminary finds by committee investigators during a three-and-one-half month probe in the Washington area indicated that dealers are obtaining a 43 percent profit on "trade-ins" and that they have been undervaluing cars traded in at an average of at least $300.

The committee also contended in a report that new car buyers have not wanted approximately 50 percent of the "extras" they must buy.

Hunters Pop Off; Some Get Game, Others Wonder

Promptly at 9 a. m. Monday air surrounding Circleville began reverberating with shotgun blasts, heralding the opening day of pheasant and rabbit season.

And at 10 a. m. some hunters returned with a full game bag, two cock pheasants and four rabbits.

On the other hand, there were those who trailed into town about noon, looking for refreshment between rounds, still wanting to know "where's all this game we've been hearing about."

On the whole, however, reports are good, stating that there are more birds and dinkies in the fields of Pickaway County than have been seen in any year during the past decade.

Clarence Francis, county game protector, said Monday his statement concerning the plentiful game supply was not idle talk, but that it would be substantiated as the season progressed.

No arrests for game violation charges concerning the rabbit and pheasant season had been recorded as of noon Monday.

Robert Cranker, 25-year-old overseas veteran of World War II, was the first 1948 Ohio hunting season casualty reported.

Cranker died of a heart attack a few miles south of his Perryburg home at about 10 a. m. Officials said the attack was caused by over-exertion. He is survived by his widow, Juanita.

ON HIS ARRIVAL in New York, The Very Rev. Hewlett Johnson, Dean of England's Canterbury Cathedral, asked for peace and understanding with the Russians. The first application by the so-called "Red Dean" for a visa this year was turned down because his visit was sponsored by the National Council of Soviet-American Friendship. Later, 125 American clergymen and educators formed a committee to issue a new invitation and the visa was granted to him. (International)

Boy, 4, Hurt In Home Fall

Richard Dean, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dean of 833 South Pickaway street, suffered a possible fracture to his forehead Sunday evening when he reportedly tumbled down the cellar stairs in his home.

According to his mother, the youngster had been descending the unlighted cellar stairway, tripping on the fourth step down.

He was rushed to Berger hospital for emergency aid, and was taken to his home following treatment. His condition is good.

jections from loyal Democrats in the South" to the expected requests for labor, anti-inflation and civil rights legislation.

Wood's views were expressed in a letter from his home in Canton, Ga., in which he emphasized that he had not been one of the States Rights members who opposed Mr. Truman's election.

The congressman expressed hope that the Democratic Party could be unified but stated:

"I am apprehensive that there will be some serious objections on the part of many of the loyal Democrats in the South to some of the proposals (in the President's program), particularly the so-called civil rights proposal and the repeal of the Labor Relations Act, as well as the proposal for a peacetime price control."

A survey by International News Service indicated that Mr. Truman must obtain the support of the great bulk of Southern Democrats or Republican opponents to carry out his legislative program.

The survey showed that a Southern Democratic-Republican coalition probably could control 32 of the 34 committees and chop off at the source any legislation it desired.

(Editor's Note: INS polls on the probable election outcome were as good as any of the others—just plain wrong.)

Congressional observers believe, however, that it will be pretty hard, in view of the thumping Democratic victory at the polls, to deny Mr. Truman his anti-inflation program.

New Holland's Last Remaining Physician Dies

Dr. Charles Davis, New Holland's last surviving physician and a lifelong resident of that community, died Sunday evening in Grant hospital, Columbus, following a lingering illness. He was 78 years old.

A family spokesman said the physician was admitted to the hospital about a week before his death. Dr. Davis had been in failing health for more than a year.

The prominent Pickaway County physician had practiced medicine in New Holland for 56 years following his graduation in 1892 from the Cincinnati college of Medicine.

Dr. Davis was born Aug. 15, 1870, the son of Dr. B. R. and Margaret Elder Davis. He was a member of the New Holland Methodist church, Masonic lodge and a charter member of Purity chapter of Eastern Star.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Lulu Lyle Davis; one daughter, Mrs. Wilma Moeschler of Roanoke, Va.; one sister, Mrs. Ida Snapp of Washington C. H.; and two brothers, Frank of Toledo and Harry of New Holland.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the residence with burial to be made in the family lot of New Holland cemetery by the Kirkpatrick funeral home. Friends may call at the residence after 2 p. m. Tuesday.

Fall Spading Helps Keep Soil Tiptop

Thawing Claimed Disease-Killer

Both farm and city gardeners can ease some of their next season's burdens by giving attention to their garden plots now, according to the vegetable specialists.

Removing and destroying the remains of old crops will get rid of many insects and diseases that winter over, and spading heavy soils this fall will make them easier to handle next spring.

That many diseases and insects that attack vegetables live over winter in the remains of the previous crops is pointed out by Alvin Moll, extension vegetable specialist at Ohio State university, who recommends that the garden be cleaned up this fall.

The remains of the vegetable plants may either be burned or placed in the compost pile where they will disintegrate and provide organic material for soil improvement. The crops that were severely attacked by pests this past season should be burned.

Referring to the fall spading of gardens, Moll says that although garden soils should carry a winter cover crop, some heavy soils will benefit more from fall breaking than they do from a cover crop.

SPADING or plowing may be done any time during late fall or early winter. The freezing and thawing will break up the heavy clods and the soil will be mellow and ready to plant in the spring as soon as sufficiently dry. The soil should not be worked down but left rough until next spring. All that will be necessary at planting time is a light raking of the surface, if not sufficiently smooth to plant.

Fertilizer may be applied before the fall spading. Moll recommends the use of a 5-10-10 or 8-8-8 analysis, applying from 2 to 4 pounds per 100 square feet.

Slayer Yields To Conscience

TOLEDO, Nov. 15 — Leslie Green, 48-year-old Toledoan who confessed to the 1934 killing of Charles Kaye in Brooklyn prepared today to return to Brooklyn to be charged.

Green informed Toledo police in a telephone call from a grocery store that he had killed Kaye in a street fight. His story was confirmed late yesterday by Brooklyn detectives Everett Rooney and Richard Brennan.

"My conscience has been bothering me and that is why I called the Toledo police," Green told local officials.

TOLEDO, Nov. 15—Toledo police today held Charles Musselman, 47-year-old former Detroit and Los Angeles policeman, who has been sought by West Coast authorities since last April.

Los Angeles officials requested that the Toledo police hold Musselman, who escaped from Los Angeles municipal court last spring as he was being taken from the court to a detention room in the hall of justice. He had been sentenced to serve 180 days on a larceny charge.

Sarringhaus Divorce Suit Comes To End

In one of three divorce decrees handed down in Pickaway County common pleas court, Mary Ellen Sarringhaus won her separation from Paul R. Sarringhaus, former Ohio State university All-America football star.

Mrs. Sarringhaus was awarded her decree on grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. The couple was married Sept. 21, 1946, in Circleville and they have one child.

The court gave Sarringhaus ownership of an automobile. His ex-wife was given custody of the son for which the defendant was ordered to pay $20 per week support payments.

A four-year-old marriage hit the rocks when the court granted a divorce to Leondas Jarrell from his wife, Hilda Z. Jarrell on grounds of gross neglect. They were married March 12, 1944.

The second husband to win his decree was Eugene J. Thimmes, whose petition accused his estranged wife, Dallice Thimmes, of gross neglect of duty.

Custody of a child was granted to Thimmes, the court ruled. The couple was married Jan. 5, 1943, in San Francisco, Cal.

Business Here Still Well Over 1947 Figures

Pickaway County sales tax receipts continued to climb for the week ending Oct. 30.

Collections this week amounted to $5,599.97, a gain of $713.10 over the previous period, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported.

Total receipts so far this year still are well above the total figure for the corresponding 10 months of 1947. To date $186,592.76 has been collected compared to $161,567.49 last year. Balance in the state treasury listed as expenditures, Ebright at the close of Nov. 5, was said.

PALESTINE PEACE TALK

PEACE talk from Palestine in recent days has been based on reports of direct negotiations between Israel and the separate Arab governments involved in the fighting. These rumors appeal to logical reasoning, as it now appears that only by such negotiations will peace agreements be made.

If peace in Palestine should finally come by direct dealings among the states involved, as now seems likely, there doubtless would be a strong general inclination to discount the effects of United Nations intervention. The record of mediation by representatives of the United Nations has not been a brilliant one.

On the other hand it should be remembered that until the United Nations took a hand in it, all efforts to bring present Jewish and Arab leaders face to face to talk over their problems had failed. The first such meeting in connection with the post-war Palestine situation was the result of the work of the late Count Bernadotte, United Nations mediator. Previously the attitude on both sides had been best described by the familiar phrase, "there is nothing to discuss," an attitude more likely than not to lead to war. A taste of fighting may have helped to change this.

While it cannot be denied that the military helplessness of the United Nations has been distressing in Palestine, there is no way to measure the effect of the moral force of the international organization in bringing the two warring factions into conversations.

EX-PRESIDENTS

HERBERT Hoover is not going to have company after all. For 15 years he has been the only ex-president, and now he can own this title for four years more.

Two is apt to be the maximum number of ex-presidents at any one time. Taft and Theodore Roosevelt from 1913 to 1919, and Taft and Woodrow Wilson from 1919 to 1924 were joint holders of the honor. One is more common, and often there is none. Between the date of Calvin Coolidge's death, Jan. 5, 1933, and March 4 of that year, when Hoover went out of office, there was no ex-president, just as there was none between the death of Grover Cleveland on June 24, 1908, and Theodore Roosevelt's exit from the White House the following March. There were such gaps occasionally in the nineteenth century.

Earlier in our history the country had a larger stock of ex-presidents. In 1861 there were no fewer than five, Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan. These had all been one-termers. The practice of electing chief executives for eight years and more has dried up the supply of ex-presidents.

Is there anything more proud and honorable in this present world than a group of Boy Scouts?

Ghosts A-Twitter

At first, there was not a great deal of consternation over the announcement—but gradually, the word has sifted around the capital that maybe the congressman was serious.

And it has the ghosts all a-twitter.

The Congressman in question is Forest A. Harness, a somewhat outspoken Republican from Kokomo, Ind. He is a member of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Department, and heads that group's subcommittee on publicity and propaganda.

It should be made clear that the subcommittee's assigned duty is not to put out publicity, but rather to concern itself with such efforts on the part of the executive departments.

During the hotter phases of the recent election campaign, Congressman Harness called reporters into his office. He said he had a statement to make.

The statement charged that various people within the executive agencies had been utilized, "sometimes unwittingly," in turning out political speeches "and other propaganda" for the Democrats in the campaign. The congressman asserted that government reports were being given what he termed "political twists," and that public relation staffs in particular were being used to turn out campaign material.

"My committee has been gathering evidence of such activities and will continue to do so," he said. "Those employees who are found to have engaged in the preparation of political speeches and other propaganda in violation of federal law will be exposed by my committee and referred to the proper prosecuting office for summary action."

The law to which Harness referred was the well-known Hatch Act which forbids federal employees to engage in political activity, and which, in some cases, provides for criminal prosecution of violators.

"Some of the violations have been flagrant," Harness said later to a reporter. He added that he felt that some of the "bitterest and most unfair statements and speeches to come out of the campaign were those prepared and distributed by federal employees at the taxpayer's expense."

He went on to say that he had instructed his subcommittee staff to keep a sharp lookout for what he called "this type of violation," and that whatever was discovered would be turned over to the Civil Service Commission and to the Department of Justice.

Harness said he was particularly concerned with the fact that the public is paying, in the form of federal salaries, for a large part of what he called the "campaign show."

This, he said, he intended to stop, and he issued a warning to all federal employees thus engaged that, since they could lose their jobs and be prosecuted for such activities, they'd better keep "their eyes open."

All of which, as was mentioned previously, created no particular consternation. Not only is it one of the oldest trades in the capital city, but also it is one of the most widespread. The legislative branch of the government is as much a sinner as the executive, although the congressman's subcommittee tasks leave him concerned only with the latter.

But some of his contemporaries on Capitol Hill have grown a bit worried of late, as the grapevine has brought word to them that the congressman meant what he said. For they realize that if he investigates the executive ghost-writers, it is inevitable that the legislative behind-the-scenes word merchants soon will get equal attention. And the taxpayer foots both bills.

Appendicitis in the Elderly

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SINCE I was a medical student, and that was many years ago, we have gone a long way in the management of acute appendicitis and now results are fairly satisfactory, with one exception. This exception is the failure to recognize and treat promptly appendicitis in the older "group of patients, particularly those over the age of 40."

We have found out that elderly persons with appendicitis develop the condition slowly. Often the patient may not even look sick during an attack. However, the condition progresses rapidly and, by the fourth day of the disorder, the appendix may have broken open, discharging its contents into the cavity of the abdomen, resulting in peritonitis.

Symptoms Not Typical
Then, too, the older patient with appendicitis often delays in seeking attention. Unfortunately, the symptoms are not typical, as they are in young persons, and a correct diagnosis is difficult; and, as I have mentioned, breaking of the appendix develops very early.

Probably the most important contributing factor to the bad outcome in these persons is self-treatment and the taking of laxatives at home prior to entering the hospital. Not only is the delay dangerous, but the use of the laxatives may make rupture of the appendix more likely.

Abdominal Pain
The usual symptoms of appendicitis consist of pain in the right lower part of the abdomen, together with tenderness on pressure on this area, and some stiffness or rigidity of the muscles. The white cells in the blood area are, as a rule, increased, and there may be fever. Sickness at the stomach and vomiting often but not always occur.

If there is any suspicion of appendicitis and a definite diagnosis is not possible, an operation should nevertheless be carried out promptly. If the patient should have an attack of appendicitis and recovers from it without operation, the appendix may best be removed during the period when no symptoms are present.

There are a number of conditions of the bowel which may contribute to the development of appendicitis, such as a blocking of the bowel, due to narrowing of the passageway through it.

Weak Spots
Elderly persons commonly have what is known as diverticulae in the appendix. These are little outpouchings, similar in appearance to those which occur in the weak spots of a rubber tube.
If the symptoms of appendicitis occur or, better yet, if any pain develops in the abdomen, there should be no delay in having an immediate examination made by the doctor. More important—self-treatment should not be attempted. Because hundreds of people have not followed this advice, they have needlessly sacrificed their lives.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
P. S.: What is spastic colitis?
Answer: Spastic colitis means inflammation of the bowel in which the muscle tissue of the bowel is in spasm, often associated with constipation. Because the bowel is irritated, it is customary in such cases to use soft diets, free from excessive fiber.

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

The man who was arrested this week for impersonating a Republican senator should be given kindly care and the latest news.

He may be suffering polio which is more prevalent than the common cold this year.

Many sufferers find eight hours sleep, light exercise, and avoiding the company of Democrats helpful to convalescence.

Right now the search is on for a substitute for the Taft-Hartley Act. Perhaps something in the nature of no act at all.

The feeling is that too many restraints should not be placed on a people already hemmed in by 15-minute parking signs.

And it is comforting to know that repeal of the act will bring a long period of domestic tranquility, they say.

All About Marriage

by ETHEL HUESTON

SYNOPSIS
What had become of the old Lakeside crowd after the war? That is the question which soviety Donna Colwell pondered as late in the night she sat by her window going over all that had happened at the Lakeside Club since the war. The crowd had changed. There were the afterthoughts of the happy and unhappy war romances and marriages; the way widows including her brother's young wife, Donna herself still worked for a living in New York, a successful young career girl. There was Mark Banister still completely devoted to her, impatient for marriage with her.

CHAPTER TWO
THERE WERE others at the party, quite young ones, younger even than Thelma. They had been considered infants when Donna and her crowd were having their happiest times at the Lakeside. Now they were conspicuously present, patently taking over in their turn. Some of them were married and one, whom Donna remembered as an impertinent little brat, was the mother of twins.

Mark Banister was unchanged. Donna, dancing in his arms, talked along in her old cheerful manner, teasing, chaffing, gay in repartee, to which he responded in kind as he always had done. But no light chatter could entirely banish the nagging consciousness of all the tragic changes time had brought.

Conversation among the girls was different too, and for some reason it made Donna, the unmarried, feel old and wise and sophisticated. Comparison of formulas and baby weights; tribulations with baby sitters; high cost of groceries; job injustices to which husbands were subject—blatant trivialities in a world burning with terrific issues.

Donna burrowed her head against Mark's cheek contentedly and for a while they danced in silent pleasure. That, she mused, was one of Mark's best points; whether you talked or whether you were silent, you were sure of his companionable contentment. She glanced up at him, a glance of approval which froze suddenly on her bright face.

Mark was not gazing down at the top of her head with his usual rapt admiration. His eyes, deeply shadowed, were fixed off somewhere in space, away from her. His lips were curved in a broad smile.

Donna halted their rhythmic movement and squared about to face him.
"What are you laughing at?" she demanded suspiciously. "Nobody said anything."

He drew her back into his arm. "Was I laughing? I didn't know it. But there's laughter inside of me and I suppose it oozed out to the surface."

"If you are thinking something funny, you ought to tell me. I like laughing, too."
"It isn't really funny and it's nothing to laugh at, either. I'm just grinning like a fool because I'm so happy I can't help it."

He was supposed to be happy dancing with her, Donna reflected, and he was happy. Still, his was

Believe President Planning To Retain Present Cabinet | State Department Frowning On American Colonies Talk.

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—Never before, perhaps, have so many political plans been kicked into a cocked hat by an election upset. President Truman's surprise victory makes temporarily vacant the space in Secretary of State George C. Marshall's office which John Foster Dulles was expected by many to occupy.

The same goes for the niche in Defense Secretary James Forrestal's office, which was expected to become the future quarters of Harold E. Stassen. Also, Herbert Brownell, Dewey-Warren campaign manager, who had been ticketed for the postmaster general's job, will now return to his law practice in New York.

In some Washington circles, political observers insist that President Truman is determined to carry on with his present cabinet. Although Secretary Marshall in Paris has declared that he has "long desired to retire from public life" and will resign after Jan. 20, there are some who insist that he may keep his post.

COLONIAL POW-WOW—Look for the United States to seek a postponement of the projected Havana conference on the problem of European colonies in the western hemisphere. The State department does not like the project at all; would rather see it not held. Objection to it is that it may cause friction among the western allies since Britain, France and Holland are the nations which would suffer if the colonies are taken over by the American states. There also is the suspicion that economic rather than moral reators prompt some of the Latin countries to seek to grab off some of the highly-developed European colonies which are ahead of many smaller American powers.

HIGH COST OF PRESIDENTS—Just to erect a speaking platform on the Capitol steps and set up some bleacher seats for President Truman's inauguration next Jan. 20, is going to cost $80,000. This is the cost, even though the contractor retains title to the lumber and can knock down the structures after the show.

The high cost of labor and materials makes the price of the inaugural construction more than double what it was the last time FDR took the oath of office.

President Harding suggested that everyone could stand at his inaugural and he would take the oath on the Capitol steps. However, he was overruled by supporters who threatened to take up a collection to build a platform.

NEW-STYLE FINANCING—Americans accustomed to regarding Marshall Plan funds as a handout may think little of it, but old-style economists are turning over in their graves at the loan agreements the Economic Co-operation Administration is making.

For instance, the British 310-million-dollar loan agreement provides that interest payments of two and one-half per cent shall begin in 1952 and that semi-annual principal payments shall begin in 1956. However, it then provides that the installments may be postponed if Britain is unable to meet them, "because of adverse economic conditions or for any other reason."

This provision was included even though top government financial statisticians pointed out that Britain would be the only judge as to whether she is able to pay.

This country most certainly is not in a position to question such figures as the British chancellor of the Exchequer may present.

And the word of the provision is such that, while presenting a ready-made excuse if economic conditions are adverse, it also contemplates the possibility that Britain might wish to defer payment even though economic conditions are good!

When, If—
Britain
May Pay

Use soap and water to wash the rubber gasket, the shelves, drip pan, ice trays and vegetable crisper.

YOU WOMEN WHO SUFFER HOT FLASHES then FEEL CHILLY-

Here's Good News!

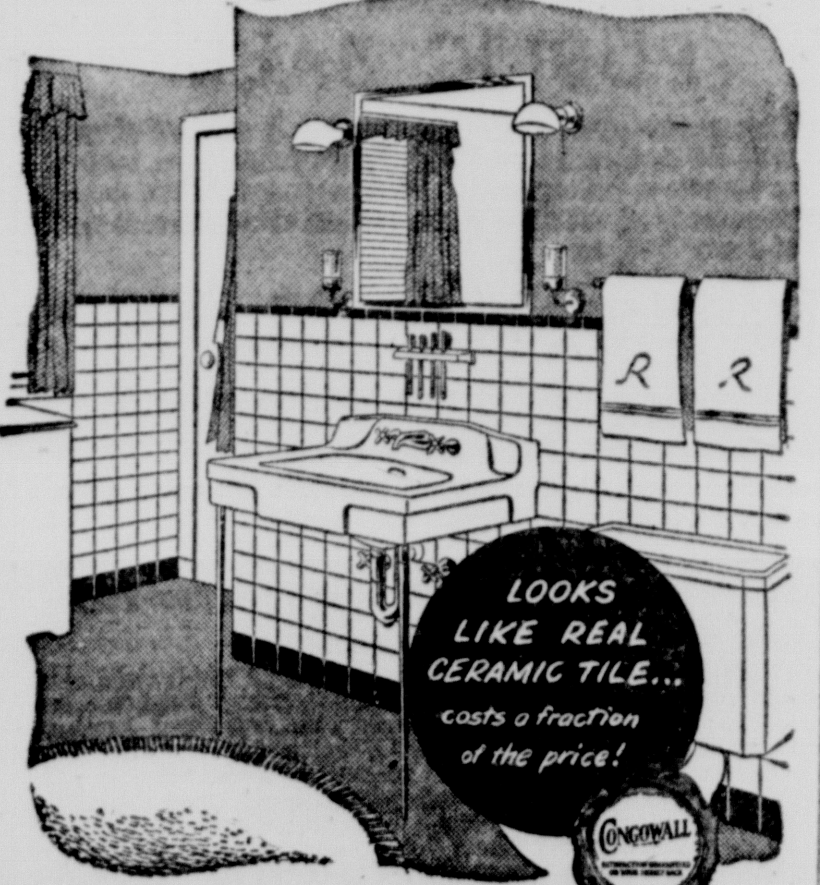

Are you between the ages of 35 and 52 and going through that trying functional "middle-age" period peculiar to women? Does this make you suffer from hot flashes, feel clammy, so nervous, irritable, weak? Then so try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms! It's famous for this!

Many wise "middle-age" women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against this distress.

Pinkham's Compound contains no opiates—no habit-forming drugs. It helps nature (you know what we mean!). This great medicine also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect.

Robert Morgan called the meeting to order in the parish house with the group joining to sing "Living For Jesus." Gene Kerns lead the devotionals by reading a Thanksgiving Scripture.

David Young presented the evening's topic "Giving Ourselves To God." The secretarial report was read by Edward Wolfe.

Lunch was served under direction of Wolfe, Morgan and Gary Brown.

The Rev. G. L. Troutman directed the program which consisted of games. Vocal selections were sung by Nancy Sensenbrenner, Ruth Troutman and Wolfe. Mrs. G. L. Troutman accompanied the trio at the piano.

Parents Host Birthday Party

A miniature circus, including a merry-go-round and toy animals centered the table. This arrangement was flanked by two decorated cakes.

Among the guests were Mary Lou Lake, Sarah Best, Marsha Morgan, David Griner, Pat Rooney, David and Anna Styers, Joe Rooney Jr., and Charles Gerhardt.

Medical Records Ruled Private

COLUMBUS, Nov. 15—The Army medical service record of any veteran is a private matter, according to a ruling by the second district court of appeals in Columbus.

The court ruled yesterday in favor of Dr. John B. McLaughlin of Columbus, holding that the medical records in VA files could not be examined without consent of the individual concerned.

In ruling that a refusal was not a matter of comment before a jury, and that the individual could not be cross-examined on his reasons for refusal, the appellate court reversed the Franklin County common pleas court.

The lower court had ruled in favor of the Massachusetts Indemnity Co. in a suit in which McLaughlin sought payment for loss of both eyes by a gunshot wound.

Dr. Laughlin's attorneys said the case probably would be retried.
